Missed it at last.

Some time ago a physician called upon a young man who was ill, says an exchange. He sat for a little by the bedside, examining his patient, and then he honestly told him the sad intelligence that he had but a very short time to live. The young man was astonished; he did not expect it would come to that so soon. He forgot that death "comes in such an hour as ye think not." At length he looked up into the face of the doctor, and, with a most despairing countenance, repeated the expression:

"I have missed it—at last."

"What have you missed?" inquired the tender-hearted, sympathizing physician.

"I have missed it—at last," again he repeated.

"Missed what?"

"Doctor, I have missed the salvation of my soul."

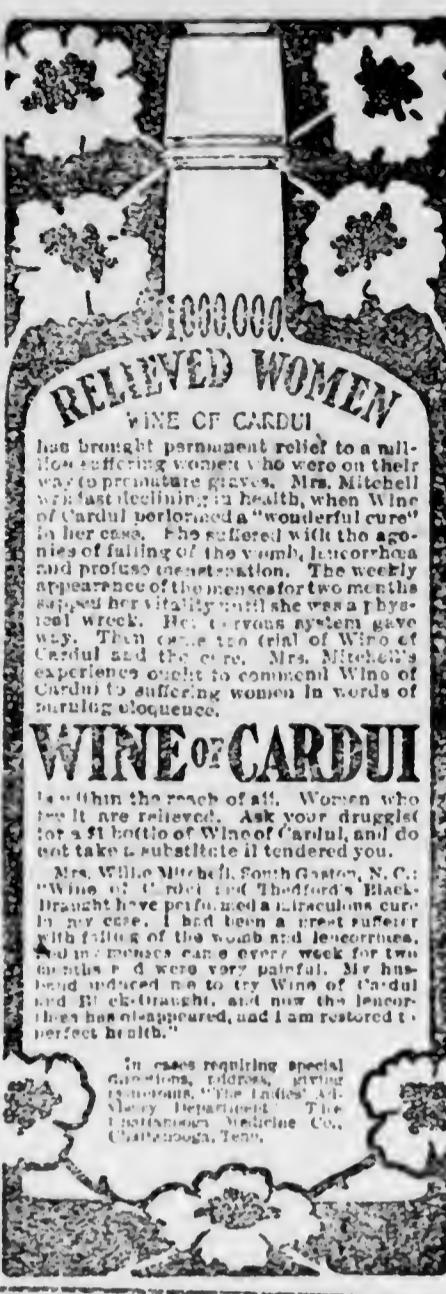

"Old say not so—it is not so. Do you remember the thief on the cross?"

"Yes, I remember the thief on the cross. And I remember that he never said to the Holy Ghost—"go thy way. But I did. And now he is saying to me—"Go your way." He lay gasping awhile, and, looking up with a vacant, staring eye, he said: "I was awakened and was anxious about my soul, a little time ago. But I did not want to be saved then. Something seemed to say to me, 'Don't put it off, make sure of salvation.' I said to myself, 'I will postpone it.' I knew I was a great sinner, and needed a savior. I resolved, however, to dismiss the subject for the present. Yet I could not get my own consent to do it until I promised to take it up again, at a time not remote, and more favorable. I bargained away, resisted and insulted the Holy Spirit. I never thought of coming to this. I meant to have made my salvation sure, and now I have missed it at last."

"You remember," said the doctor, "that there were some who came at the eleventh hour."

"My eleventh hour," he rejoined, "was when I had that call of the spirit. I have had none since—and shall not have. I am given over to be lost. Oh! I have missed it! I have sold my soul for nothing—a feather—a straw—undone forever!" This was said with undescribable despondency, that nothing was said in reply.

After lying a few moments, he

About 1,200 cattle on the market. Very few good ones offered. Market fair but trade a little slow. Buyers claiming prices too high.

The best feeders sold at 41; yearlings at 41 to 5¢; heifers at 3 to 3½¢; cows at 2½ to 3½¢. Cattle all sold at so much per head. We only noticed one bunch of yearlings weighed, so prices were often higher than the purchaser thought. The man who thinks the trader from the mountains does not know his business has a whole lot to learn. A fair sized crowd in attendance from over the State, but no buyers from other States. Most of the trading was done in the afternoon but at about the price quoted.

A big lot of mules for sale and trade was fairly brisk. Medium mules were, we think, a little lower. Good mules were firm at strong prices, some selling as high as $150 per head. Medium mules sold at $80 to $110. Lexington dealers bought about 25 head at from $80 to $150. Other sales were made at these prices.

Horses were about as usual. Some sales of medium horses at $65 to $100. Plugs at lower figures. No fine horses sold.—Mt. Sterling Advocate.

A Clear Head.

The successful outcome of any enterprise or the accomplishment of any labor, depends, first of all upon the possession of a clear head. The head that is dull, dizzy, nervous, fretful, melancholy, easily confused, or that throbs, aches and pains, is not fit for service. Not only is such a head lacking in mental capacity, but it actually weakens and destroys the nerve forces and lowers the vitality of every organ of the body.

"Notwithstanding treatment by our best physicians I suffered for years from nervous and sick headaches and got so bad that I was unfit to attend to my law practice four days out of six. I lost my appetite and flesh, had no energy and could scarcely sleep at all. I bought a bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine and was relieved in twelve hours, but I continued the remedy and have scarcely had a touch of headache since."

Horses are dying in this country with a strange disease. They seem to go blind and stagger round and round and die in about from six to twenty-four hours. Rufus Burton and Isaac Barnett have each lost one in the last week. Johnson Harris lost a very valuable horse a week or so ago with this disease. There seems to be no effective remedy.

Mrs. J. F. McKinney has received a letter from her brother, P. A. Wright, who emigrated to Missouri about six weeks ago. He writes that since they have been there all of his family has had the grip, and says that his wife is just beginning to improve from a severe case of pneumonia. He says he has such good neighbors who have been so kind and helpful during their sickness.

"I hobbled into Mr. Blackmon's drug store one evening," says Wesley Nelson, of Hamilton, Ga., "and he asked me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism with which I had suffered for a long time. I told him I had no faith in any medicine as they all failed. He said: 'Well if Chamberlain's Pain Balm does not help you, you need not pay for it.' I took a bottle of it home and used it according to the directions and in one week I was cured, and have not since been troubled with rheumatism." Sold by J. W. Dawson & Bro. and Morgan McKinney.

Danger of Colds and La Grippe.

The greatest danger from colds and la grippe is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous malady. It will cure a cold or an attack of la grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by J. W. Dawson & Bro. and Morgan McKinney.

Dear mother:

I wonder what you are doing this cloudy morning. I am well. Thursday night we gave an entertainment. I wish you could have been here. The children all did well. I go to school every day, Miss Shipman is my teacher's name and Miss Peet is Vernon's teacher's name. Our teachers are very kind to us. Mr. and Mrs. Kelley are very kind to us indeed. We get nice food to eat and good clothes to wear. School begins in the morning at half past eight and at night we go to study hour at quarter to seven and come down at eight o'clock.

Almer McIntosh.

The writer of the above letter is the daughter of J. J. McIntosh, deceased, who, with her little brother, Vernon, are in the Masonic Widow's and Orphan's Home at Louisville. The spelling, capitalization and punctuation are just as it written, which shows the writer to be a bright little girl.

Of Practical Aid to Women.

The March number of the Delineator is admirably suited to the various needs of every woman. There is something in it of a practical character for every woman who has household cares or who wishes to understand the tendency in modern styles. One of the most valuable articles is on "The Servants We Do Not Keep," by Prof. Ellen H. Richards of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. This is a subject that should interest every woman who has trouble with the domestic problem.
